UNIVERSITY OF ST. AUGUSTINE
FOR HEALTH SCIENCES

Essential Functions

Set forth below are the Essential Functions that you must be able to meet in order to successfully complete the Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, and/or the Master of Orthopaedic Physician Assistant programs at the University of St. Augustine for Health Sciences.

We wish to facilitate your success. If you know of any reason that you cannot now, or after standard instruction, meet all of the functions set forth below, you are to inform the Student Services office so you can be counseled regarding the process for requesting reasonable accommodations. The University of St. Augustine for Health Sciences wishes to make reasonable accommodations in areas in which it is able to do so.

There are certain physical requirements that this program cannot accommodate such as failure to meet the motor, tactile, visual, and hearing criteria as set forth below. In addition, there are standards of performance that cannot be accommodated such as in the areas of safety or judgment. The cognitive component of some of the Essential Functions, such as the ability to perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) or transfer patients, is taught as part of the curriculum.

Please contact the Student Services Office with any questions about the Essential Functions and/or reasonable accommodations.
